Renowned Psychic Medium Celebrates 20 Years of Offering Spiritual Guidance

Manchester, WA — Internationally known psychic and medium, Charlene Ryan, recently announced her 20th anniversary of publicly working as an Intuitive Consultant. And my how the times have changed.

In 1987, just a year after graduating from Seattle University with a MA in Psychology, Ryan stepped out of mainstream psychology and its counseling protocols and into the unconventional, and often controversial, waters of parapsychology. In the twenty years that have passed since then, she has successfully used her unique gifts as a psychic medium and life coach to help guide the lives of her clients in more healthy and productive directions.

A self-described mystic, Ryan believes everyone is naturally intuitive and says that with “re-training” and giving oneself permission, anyone can reawaken their intuitive powers. She thinks most people’s abilities lay dormant because of societal taboos—something Ryan can relate to only too well. As a child, she learned the hard way to keep her natural abilities in check.

One of her first psychic memories was at the tender age of 5, when her deceased grandmother appeared to Ryan on the day of her funeral. When her mother overheard her talking with her dead grandmother, Ryan was promptly slapped across the face and told her behavior was inappropriate. As a result, she quickly learned to repress her abilities and spent much of her childhood feeling alone and misunderstood. It wasn’t until age 16, after Ryan began studying Astrology, that her psychic abilities once again began to rise to the surface.

“I was born at a time when these abilities were looked upon as some childhood fantasy or the devil’s work. You can imagine then that I did not have encouragement or support for this gift.”

Fortunately for Ryan, a lot has changed in the past twenty years and the paranormal has now become in a way, “normal.” As measured by the booming sales of spiritual books, newspapers and magazines; spiritual guest spots on TV and radio talk shows, and even several primetime network TV series dedicated to the paranormal, people are searching more than ever for spiritual answers to life’s problems. Today, the services of professional psychics and mediums are not only widely accepted, they’re in big demand.

To celebrate her 20th anniversary, Ryan is offering deep discounts on intuitive consultations from now until the end of October. A 1-hour in-person consultation, which normally costs $150, is now $85 ($90 for a taped session over the phone). Ryan’s discounted consultations are her way of honoring her abilities and giving thanks to all of the people who have supported her along her path. In-person consultations are done at her home in Manchester, WA, but Ryan says psychic abilities are not restricted by geography.

“My gifts allow me to accurately guide my clients in matters of relationships, career, prosperity, life purpose, finances, health issues, past lives, and make contact with loved ones from the other side. I read energy, which transcends time and location. An accurate reading is not dependent on you being physically present with me.”

In a typical session, Ryan interprets the patterns at work in an individual’s life and how and when they are likely to manifest into certain events. That is, IF their current momentum remains unchanged. Ryan insists that psychic readings are not about “prediction.”

“Prediction makes it seem like it’s written in stone and you can’t change it, and one of the reasons I believe that people come for readings is so that they can make necessary changes using their free will. As a professional psychic I provide extrasensory information about the past, present and future. I can connect with energy, and can project where somebody is in their life today, where they’re coming from, and then, on a line of probability, see where they’re heading. This becomes like projecting into the future.”

What sets Charlene Ryan apart from other psychic mediums is her diverse life experiences-the winding path that her inner voice has led her down in the past twenty years. After a difficult childhood, a failed marriage and uncertainty over future employment, Ryan redesigned her own life path and overcame major obstacles on her journey to personal fulfillment.

In 1986, Ryan took a decided leap of faith and began to offer her intuitive services to the public. As her client list grew, so did her abilities. Then in 1988, she was meditating when she was guided to start a metaphysical television show. The idea seemed ridiculous, but soon she knew she needed to trust her inner voice. Soon, her one-hour weekly interview show, “Synergy,” was being broadcast on public access TV and featuring famous authors, psychics, guru’s, healers and astrologers from all over the world, including Charles Thomas Casey, grandson of the famous psychic and “sleeping prophet,” Edgar Cayce. After her TV show ended in 1990, she co-facilitated Conflict Resolution workshops at a men’s prison in Washington state, worked as a Drug and Alcohol Counselor on several state-wide Indian Reservations and at age 55, with just $150 in her pocket, overcame her own fears and personal doubts and followed her inner voice on a year-long contemporary walk-about in Australia. A journey she documents in her latest book, “Memoirs of a Mystic.”

When asked to speculate about her own future and where she’ll be in another 20 years, Ryan says, “ I will have written another possibly two books, continued to work with people as an intuitive, connected with an alternative healing center, and continued my international travels.” Provided, of course, that Ms. Ryan chooses to remain on her life’s current trajectory.
